

Waste oil collectors in the Yorkshire area

The companies listed below are licensed by the Environment Agency (EA) and will collect waste cooking oil in the Yorkshire area for recycling.

Used cooking oil can be recycled for a variety of purposes. One of the most popular is to make biofuel which can be used in diesel vehicles and for electricity generation. Once collected, the oil is filtered, heated and cleaned and then processed to separate the oil into biofuel and glycerine, a by-product which can in turn be reused in soaps and other products.

Unlike traditional fossil fuels, biofuel does not add CO₂ to the earth's atmosphere.

Because there is an increasing demand for biofuel, many contractors will collect used cooking oil free of charge, although this may depend on the quantities involved and the quality of your used oil- heavily contaminated oil costs more to process.

This list is not exclusive and you're not obliged to use these companies, but you must ensure that any company you employ is properly licensed by the EA.

The companies operate entirely independently from Yorkshire Water therefore please contact them directly for information about their services.

N.B. Yorkshire Water accepts no liability in respect of any arrangements you may enter into with the contractors listed.
