

water is open for business

From April 2017, over 1.2 million businesses and organisations will be able to choose who provides their premises with water and wastewater services.

Eligible businesses and other non-household customers, from the smallest high street shops to the largest public authorities, will be able to shop around or renegotiate their existing deal.

If your business is eligible, you could benefit from:

lower bills and better value for money more tailored services to suit your business needs better customer service help to become more water efficient
