Dear

I refer to your request for information submitted to Yorkshire Water dated 7 February 2025.

Please find attached the data which you have requested. Included within this email are the start/stop discharge data for the Wastewater Treatment Works (WWTW) from 1 January 2024 to 31 January 2025.

The data we receive from our monitors is not always accurate and it does not confirm that an overflow has been in operation. We are sharing this data exactly as we have received it, so please note that there may be errors. Whilst we aim to deliver continuously accurate data, our monitors work in challenging conditions measuring fine margins so we do experience false readings and calibration issues from time to time. This means that it can sometimes indicate there's a discharge when in fact there's an issue with the monitor or the monitor is experiencing communication issues. We are constantly working to improve our data.

The 2024 information provided to you in our response is our analogue data which will be used to inform our event duration monitoring (EDM) annual submission for the calendar year 2024, as part of this process the data is subject to review and may change prior to our submission to the Environment Agency in March 2025.

The 2025 information provided to you in our response is our analogue data which will be used to inform our event duration monitoring (EDM) annual submission for the calendar year 2025 as part of this process the data is subject to review and may change prior to our submission to the Environment Agency in March 2026.

In regards to your query for the EDM webpage, that was showing The Weres discharging from 1 January 2025 to the 8 January 2025 this was incorrect and due to a fault on the monitor that was rectified on the 9 January 2025. The data for this period has been excluded per our methodology and will not be reported as a spill.

I trust that the provision of this data satisfies your request. In accordance with the Environmental Information Regulations 2004, if you are not satisfied with this reply to your request you can ask for an internal review. A request for an internal review must be submitted within 40 working days by contacting the Data Protection Team.

Thank you for contacting Yorkshire Water.

Yours sincerely,

Data Protection Team
