- Just North of the picturesque North York Moors
- National Park village, Osmotherley, Cod Beck
- Reservoir is an easy going short walk. The North
- York Moors are one of the largest expanses of
- open heather moorland in the United Kingdom.
- The walk has no steps, stiles and the gates can
- be opened wider with RADAR keys for increased
- mobility.

Route Description:

Find your way to the smaller car park point 1, which is closer to the reservoir boundary fence. From this car park, find the path which runs parallel to the road within a few metres of it, heading towards the green gate. Head through the gate and follow the path in front of you for the entire length of the reservoir.
